PINK BLOB AWARD

by Kartell

Dollop Chair by yoonjaerry • 2026 WINNER • Liquid Domesticity

Dollop Chair was inspired by the feeling of recovery found in a simple bowl of Greek yogurt topped with colorful fruit. Rather than recreating food itself, it translates the freshness, softness, and emotional wellbeing of that everyday experience into form, color, and touch. Its rounded geometry echoes the gentle surface left behind after a spoonful is lifted, while its vibrant composition recalls fruit scattered across yogurt. At first glance, the colors may appear like a digital mosaic or fragmented visual noise. Yet they originate from something natural, nourishing, and restorative. In a culture increasingly shaped by instant visual consumption, Dollop proposes that design can slow perception rather than accelerate it. It invites people to reinterpret what they see through memory and experience, revealing that what first appears as stimulation can become emotional recovery. More than representing food, Dollop suggests that reinterpretation itself can become a path toward healing.

